INTERESTING LETTER FROM D. CECIL RIFE

The following interesting letter has been received by Mr. J. B. Rife from his son, D. Cecil Rife, at The American Mission, Khartum, Sudan, written August 24, 1927.

Well, here I am, out at the Geriel Agricultural School. We landed at Port Sudan last Sabbath morning and got into Khartum Tuesday evening. We would have gotten into Khartum a day sooner if the train had not been held up several times because of the sandstorms and rainstorms on the road ahead. The hottest part of the Sudan season is from sometime in April until the latter part of September, so I am starting to teach during the most unpleasant season and have nice weather to look forward to.

However, the weather is not so bad as I expected. Like the United States weather conditions have been very abnormal during the past year, having had more rain during the last year or two than the people who live here can remember for some time back.

We stopped at Port Said a few hours before entering the Suez Canal. It is the dirtiest town I was ever in. The streets are full of peddlers of all sorts of trinkets who gather around a person like flies if he stops along the street. The inhabitants are Egyptians and Arabs. I bought a sun helmet, a pair of white shoes there. Practically all the country I have seen since leaving Port Said has been desert. The Red Sea is the hottest place I have been, the heat being more noticeable because of the atmosphere being more humid than it is here.

Port Said is also very hot, in fact, a good deal hotter than Khartum. It is about 1000 feet above sea level and has a dry atmosphere. It is much cooler than the Red Sea or Port Sudan, in fact the nights are always cool and pleasant and we sleep outdoors on the roof of the year round. The nights are much cooler even than the hot corn growing nights in Ohio. Possibly that is one reason why corn does not better here.

Geriel is about four miles out of Khartum and is situated in what was formerly barren desert. It has a fine location, being on a little higher ground than Khartum and being surrounded by plots of green grass and alfalfa in the midst of a barren waste of sand. They have a windmill and a gasoline engine to pump water from a deep well. The ground is very fertile but must be irrigated in order to produce anything. The insects are not as bad as I supposed. There are scarcely no mosquitoes and not as many flies as there are in Ohio. The worst pests here are scorpions which are apt to be found under stones or other objects lying on the ground. They have a very poisonous sting, but is remedied by applying potassium permanganate to the wound. McKnight has had to treat quite a few natives, but has never been stung himself. We have no trouble with roaches, ants or insects of that sort, although clothe-moths are pretty bad.

The train crews here are composed altogether of native Sudanese and, although the trains are pretty slow, they run smoothly. All the natives have scarves or bands on their cheeks, the number and shape of them indicating the tribe to which they belong. The train crew wear cloth turbans, sandals and white skirts or robes with a wide green girdle around them. There are native settlements all thru the desert and one cannot help but wonder how they live. Their principal food is camel or goat's milk. I saw several camels and goats in the desert. They exist some way or other on the very scant shrubbery found there.

I was met at the station in Khartum by Mr. Jack Finley, U. P. Treasurer of the Sudan, and Mr. McClellan, head of the Geriel school and the man I am to live with. We went around to Finley's home, where they keep a boarding school for orphans, and met Mrs. Finley. We didn't stay long as Mr. Finley wanted to get across the desert before dark. He has a Ford, but it is pretty easy to get lost in the desert at night, even in a machine.

Mc is a fine fellow. He is a graduate of Sterling College, Kan., and served in the navy during the war. After that he farmed four years in Iowa, then went thru Princeton Seminary. He has been here four years. School started this week, but my classes do not start till Monday. Besides me and myself, there are two Egyptian teachers, who teach the boys elementary English. I am to teach all the agricultural subjects, with the probable exception of poultry. The subjects I am to teach are: animal husbandry, field crops, botany, biology, feeds and feeding, farm mechanics, horticulture and one or two classes in elementary agriculture.

Besides the classroom work we will do about four hours of practical work along these various lines per week. There is a sixty acre farm here and a force of about twenty natives are used to cut the alfalfa and it is hauled to Khartum on carts pulled by donkeys, and there sold as about fifty cents per cwt. We also have some milk customers in Khartum. We shall plant some Duro wheat later on and try growing dates, grape fruit, limes, oranges and bananas, in fact, they have several of these trees already and have a nice outlook for bananas.

The British Government is taking quite a bit of interest in the school and the government station at Khartum is feeding some of the heifers belonging to the school free of charge. They furnish feed for all of the calves produced here, but all the milk is sold and taken half of the balance. They have several donkeys here, all of which I don't know how many. The farm is not right on the Nile, but about a quarter of a mile from it.

There are about twenty boys enrolled in school so far. They are a very friendly lot and all live here during the school year. They do their own cooking and also cook and do the housework for me and I. They don't have much sense of responsibility and have to be told how to do everything, but are willing to learn. They do not rest with us and sleep in another building. The native Sudanese around Khartum is a higher type of individual than the average Egyptian. They are cleaner, more honest and are much better morally than the Egyptians. Almost all the boys are Mohammedans and very probably have some Arab blood in them. A native woman does our washing once a week.

Supt. H. C. Aultman Calls For Examination

County Superintendent H. C. Aultman announces a special examination by the County Board of School Examiners on Saturday, Sept. 24th. This examination is held for those who on account of illness, travel trips or for other good reasons have been unable to take the regular examinations during the summer and for the High School teachers who may have been assigned subjects other than those covered by their certificates. "Those who have failed in examination during the past spring and summer will not be admitted to this examination, except by presentation of written permission from the Director of Education." Part of the questions in Principles of Teaching are to be taken from 1926-27 reading circle "Foundation in Method - Research for Teachers and Project Method in class room work." Certificates of valuation of credits will be presented at this time.

Only Two Candidates For School Board

But two candidates filed for Board of Education in this township, J. W. Johnson and Wm. Ferguson, Messrs. W. C. Hill and Clayton McMillan did not file for the election.

A COMMUNICATION

To the Herald:

Facts concerning the situation involving County Supt. Aultman, who seems himself a prisoner.

About twenty-five men and women gathered in Aultman's office. These men and women were from the Hyslop district and neighborhood. They asked Co. Supt. Aultman to issue their teacher a temporary certificate and also to vouch for his Wilmington College Diploma and credits which entitles him to a state certificate. This he failed to do, saying that he and Mr. A. E. Rouse, a member of the C. Board of Examiners were instructed by the State Department to deny anything of the kind. He also claims the teacher unethical, due to Boxwell questions which were found in the teacher's possession, and which were taken from the teacher's possession in some of the schools over the state at different dates.

The Boxwell examinations are not lawful and have not been since 1914. He also states the crowd to be Kluxers; and that the Hyslop district is the nest or hot-bed for such. This is another false statement. We do know there were Methodists, Protestants, Presbyterians, Catholics, Democrats and Republicans and there have been a few Klansmen there. He further states that Rev. Furstenberger took no little part in the action of these people. Let it be said and it can be proved if necessary that Rev. Furstenberger's name has never been mentioned in connection with the matter. Mr. Kinzer said he never met the man, and knows him not.

Aultman further states that he is considering placing some of the members of his so-called party under peace bonds. The community hopes he is through considering and has already taken some action; for through action there is hope of accomplishment.

We hope the readers of the Herald have enjoyed the former "write-ups" concerning said teacher and when they read the facts will enjoy it more so.

We the people from the Hyslop district and surrounding neighborhoods believe Aultman's main purpose in publishing such in the Herald and all other papers that he can get access to, is simply to expose the fact that two members of the County Board will be up for re-election soon, and he needs their support; has it and must hold them. But we feel and hope that the people of Greene county who are interested in good schools, and the welfare of the county as a whole, will be more than willing to not only investigate the two men mentioned and their influence; but will also look up the records of two prospective members who are now upon the ticket for the same places. They are Mr. R. A. Fudge and Mr. Fred Williamson, who are most highly respected by the people of Greene county. This we hope will be the situation before the election this making the 100 per cent proposition mentioned in the Herald last week one that is justly considered by the best thinking men and women of Greene county.

Let us stand for cleaner schools, cleaner men in office for our boys and girls, and for decency.

But Rife has been a member of the County Board since its inception in 1914. It is high time a change is made for the good of the Greene County schools. This Rife bows to Aultman, also. This is the opportune time to make the change; and the people will be heard on the school question in Greene County in November.

DETECTIVE AFTER STATE AUDITOR JOSEPH TRACY

S. A. Brusseau, of the Keystone National Detective Agency, (Inc.) in Chicago, sends a copy of a letter he mailed to Joseph A. Tracy, Auditor of the State of Ohio. The letter certainly places much responsibility on the Auditor in non performance of duty and violating the minutes of the State Board of Control in turning over part of the money to the C. N. & I. Board when the pay roll had not been approved.

Tracy evidently has joined hands with the present management regardless of the shameful business methods employed in the past as uncovered by an Examiner under Mr. Tracy's control.

It was Brusseau, who uncovered wrong doing and placed the situation before Gov. Donahay. The request for an examination followed and as a result the C. N. & I. Board discharged a number of faithful employees that had given sworn testimony proving that there had been much wrong doing in handling the institution's business.

The detective charges in his letter that Tracy had ignored a letter of August 17th in regards to the dismissal of innocent employees.

Brusseau calls attention to an affidavit made by Joseph Serra, Columbus, which charges that Tracy, Richard C. Boxwell had openly solicited a bribe. The writer takes Tracy to task about the affidavit and says that it was he that asked the detective to get it and it is now on file in the examiner's report. Tracy is also quoted as having said that no individuals employed by the State of Ohio could retain their position if they were charged with this form of graft. More evidence to this same effect could be made public with ministers and teachers interested in the welfare of Wilberforce.

Tracy of recent weeks has learned to the Industrial Board and evidently is giving the Board members and Supt. Bundy all the protection. Miss Hallie Q. Brown some weeks ago in a board meeting in Columbus, faced Tracy with some charges and he was forced to admit that he had been unfaithful to the State Board of Control members in handing out money without authority. If there is any office in Columbus that needs an investigation, it is that of the State Auditor, judging from what has happened in connection with the investigation.

Ordinarily reports of public inspections are given out to the press. This was not done by Tracy in the Wilberforce investigation. If you wanted it you had to go to the office to get it or from the Attorney General.

It will be interesting to know what kind of a reply and what sort of an excuse Tracy will send the detective headquarters. One thing is certain and that is that friends of the institution are not going to be worn out or discouraged by Tracy's actions in lending aid to a board and superintendent that stands charged with one or more very serious acts. What Tracy does is likely to determine future action, against the board and also Bundy. And Tracy may get to have his say in action he is not expecting at this time.

Watch Your Step On North Main St.

There has been an unusual amount of speed consumed by local auto owners on North Main street for the safety of the school children. Thursday Marshall McInnis issued warnings to motorists individually as they drove that section of the street that unless there was more caution, there would be visits to the mayor's office.

A TEACHER'S RESOLUTIONS

To look on the bright side of life.
To talk less and teach more.
To help pupils to help themselves.
To earn more than I am paid for.
To care for the health of my pupils.
To read from a good book each day.
To teach wholesome truth by example.
To be what I would have my pupils be.
To be clean in person, speech and thought.
To keep my head cool and my heart warm.
To remember the joys and forget the sorrows.
To follow in the footsteps of the Great Teacher.
To awaken minds and develop thinking power.
To know my pupils better and love them more.
To get all the good, clean fun out of life that I can.

Commercial Courts On Enforced Vacation

Two voices are heard from the wilderness. Two local citizens have had the experience of the commercialized court—yet neither have wept before the public.

Mr. Harry Hammon tells just the experience of many another automobile owner. One evening when he went to his car parked on a prominent downtown street in Dayton he found the car in the custody of two men who represented themselves as officers. He was told that he had violated a parking law and forthwith he was taken to one of the famous justice courts in that county outside of the City of Dayton. He met the "Squire" and was in the presence of an elective officer in a section thickly populated with foreigners as an elective officer from a section thickly populated with foreigners. Between the constables and the "court" pressure was put on Mr. Hammon to put up money for his appearance in court. He had no amount of money but offered a check. This was refused. He offered to go into the city to get money but the officers would not go. He was held in "court" until after one o'clock in the morning and when the "court" found no chance of getting his hands on cash, Mr. Hammon was liberated.

The two constables had no authority to take up any one in the city for violating a parking ordinance. In fact there was no violation but Mr. Hammon had the pleasure of spending a good part of the night in what we are told is an indispensable court.

Mr. R. C. Ritenour, grain and coal dealer and member of the board of education, says that he failed to have the pleasure of signing one of the petitions for the referendum, but if such was yet possible, he would drive five miles to do so. However Mr. Ritenour has testimony to offer about the kind of a court the United States Supreme court put out of business, and will do at the ballot box what he did not have the chance of doing for the petition.

Our only hope is that Mr. Ritenour remains calm and composed when he marks his ballot and does not "weep." For the benefit of those who do not know, the court that held Mr. Hammon until nearly morning, has not been functioning since the Supreme Court decision. A petition will be renewed if the present proposed law is to become operative.

Big Storm Damage In Madison County

Thousands of acres of corn was laid level when a big wind and rain storm with some lightning hit Fairfield town ship in Madison county Saturday evening. Not only was corn damaged but there was considerable damage to light farm buildings. It is estimated that 5000 acres of corn was ruined on farms following the Big Plain pike.

While this loss was reported from a neighboring county farmers in the hot of Ohio have been profiting by the hot weather in finishing the corn. It is claimed the hot sun has added a million a day in value to the Ohio corn crop and another ten days will insure many a field of fifty and sixty bushel of corn to the acre. The danger has been that early frost might ruin the crop which was late in being put out due to the wet weather in the spring.

M. E. Conference Appointments

The annual West Ohio Conference of the M. E. church came to a close Monday with the appointment of the ministers for the ensuing year. Rev. S. M. Ingmire was returned to Cedarville as the local congregation had asked for his return at an increased salary.

Former pastors received their assignments where they had been located. Rev. Joseph Patton to Yellow Springs and Rev. V. E. Buslar to Eaton.

The Ohio conferences will be merged into one body following the action at the Delaware meeting, yet this must be endorsed by the General Conference.

GETTING READY TO IMPROVE COLUMBUS PIKE SOON

Missing Word Contest Comes To Finish

The Herald's "Missing Word" Contest ends with this issue, having run from June 24th, a total of thirteen weeks.

Announcement of the winners will be made in our next issue. The contest has been liberally supported by the advertisers and the interest has been keen among the readers, although many have not been regularly entered and sent in answers each successive week.

The contest has been a stimulant to advertisers and created interest in store news, for this reason has been profitable to the advertiser.

The missing word last week was "most" from Martin Weimer's ad. The correct answer for this week will be posted in the Herald window Wednesday morning. All answers to be in this office by 5 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Youngsters Start Out To See Country

Three youngsters started out Saturday evening to see more of the world but were taken into custody by the police at Bucyrus when the boys left a freight train and strolled up town at two o'clock in the morning. Peary McCorkell used his father's sedan to drive to Columbus. In the delegation were Joe McFarland, and Stewart Harris, the two accompanying young McCormick in the car. Two other boys by the names of Williams and Brightman only went as far as Columbus and brought the automobile home, arriving late Saturday night. The other three are said to have taken the traction to Delaware, and there boarded a freight that landed them in Bucyrus. The police notified the local authorities and Marshall McLean brought the trio home. Young McFarland was at home on parole from the Boys' Industrial School and has been returned to the institution.

Sen. S. D. Fess Will Run Again

Senator S. D. Fess announces from his residence this week that he will be a candidate for the Senate for his second term. Fess' position has been made that Mr. Fess might be a candidate for President following the more or less uncertain statement of President Coolidge. Senator Fess says that he feels he can be of service to his state and announces for another term. It is not likely that he will have any opposition in the primary. Indications now are that Governor Donahay may be the Democratic nominee.

Farm Bureau Wants 30,000 New Members

CLIMBS FROM DAY LABORER TO HIGH POSITION

ADEN BARLOW

Mr. Aden Barlow is the first employee of the Hagar Straw Board & Paper Company, that started at the bottom and has succeeded in working himself up to superintendency of the plant. In fact he is the first local man to become superintendent.

The first superintendent was George Rose, who met his death while at work in the mill. The next was A. Z. Smith and next H. G. Punsnett, who recently resigned to become superintendent of a paper mill in Noblesville, Ind.

Mr. Barlow has had thirty years experience with the local company and during that time has been advanced from one department to the other until he is now superintendent.

It is no little honor to have conferred on one after many years of faithful service.

Mr. Barlow is married and has one son, Willard, who graduated from Cedarville College last spring and is now teaching in the Kingston school in Clinton county.

Hunting Season Is To Open Friday

The fall hunting season for game birds opens Friday, but there will be no hunting of squirrels this year under a law passed by the last legislature which prohibits it in odd years.

From Friday to Dec. 31 ducks, coot, hen, gallinule, and jacksnipe may be taken. Woodcock from Oct. 1 to Nov. 30, with a bag limit of six. Rail of all sorts may be taken from Nov. 1 to Dec. 31.

Twenty federal and 65 state game wardens will patrol the state to enforce the game laws.

School Board Elects Faculty Member

Miss Roberts is a graduate of Ohio University and just recently returned from a trip to Europe.

Coach Borst Now Working Football Squad

Coach Borst states that he has called out his squad for football practice and about thirty college boys have started training to make the team in the contests set for the gridiron this season. Songs of Plain Folks

"Fishing" By James Lewis Hays

Flag-weeds drooping, corn leaves curled,
Cattle panting in the shade,
Seems the day was surely made
Just for fishing. Good old World!

When the green "snake doctors" swing
In the lazy August air
Tell me what else can compare
With just fishing? Not a thing.

Fishing poles and bait and lunch,
Then to try the pasture lake.
If those funny boys don't take
Hook and all, I miss a hunch!

Sun's too hot to work the teams,
Let's go down where bubbles float
By the old flat-bottomed boat,
Fish, and dream forgotten dreams.

THE CEDARVILLE HERALD

KARLH BULL — — — EDITOR AND PUBLISHER

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1927.

NOW IT'S TIME FOR PROBATE JUDGES TO WEEP

It is not often that in a church gathering an event would take place that could prove to be real comedy to the public. When Sen. (?) Marshall wept before the M. E. Conference, as we are told in press dispatches, there was comedy in more than one home in the county, especially several hundred, that lost their money in Geiger-Jones stock after trusting it to him, on a plea that same could be secured whenever they wanted it. The company was a bubble in the air and blew up. More than one innocent woman "wept" and we know what a few men did but there were no tears on their part and no music was ever written to the language they used.

We can imagine the hearty laugh the directors of the banks had, along with the cashiers, when they too read of the sob story. Back in the days when bankers tried to protect money belonging to investors, they were charged with all sorts of things rather than have the money leave the bank or the building and loan. The officers of these institutions have not lost their memory. They since have seen the genuine tears and heard the heart-aching stories.

But, gentle reader, let us proceed before we have our eyes so dimmed with tears that we cannot see through the sham of such a spectacle of a hard-hearted bogus stock salesman bending every effort to prey on the widows and the inexperienced in such deals. The Herald was the subject of attack when we gave warning that the public was being asked to purchase something that would be worthless for security at the bank. No excuse can be offered now for such acts. The twenty percent commission to the salesman was only gained during many months of warning on the part of banks and building and loan companies. Its too late for excuses now. Every sale was made under deception and history has proven it true.

Rather than dwell longer on the past we now predict real tears with financial trimming when the next legislature meets. The poor under paid Probate judges in Ohio will be before the legislature for increased salaries in as much as the old time established justice of peace, with modern ideas, will be drawing $3,000 a year salary and taking all of the first $3,000 that is collected by him and reported to the county auditor and the treasurer through a sort of hokus-pokus plan conceived to fool the public.

To bring the situation down to date. With the Editor of the Herald garbed in the ermine of the proposed 1927 justice robe drawing $250 monthly or $3,000 yearly, Judge S. C. Wright, as probate judge, walks up to the county treasurer and gets his salary at the rate of $2,580 annually. The Probate Judge has no sliding scale for salary. He must hear all kinds of criminal cases, have no share in the fees, hear probation cases, non-support cases, juvenile cases, conduct trials and yet see the Editor of the Herald as justice of peace drawing $3,000 yearly out of the first money that comes into his possession and the county treasurer is to reimburse us for fees that are uncollectable.

Last winter the Common Pleas judges of Ohio wept copious tears before the legislature and without increasing their duties, salaries were increased. The Sen. (?) must have first learned to weep there for he voted for the salary increase evidently with the belief that farm relief was near and the extra tax burden would not be noticed.

"Let's weep". The Sen. (?) has wept and the Probate Judges have reason to weep.

SPRINGFIELD BUS HITS FORD COUPE WEDNESDAY

The north-bound Springfield and Washington bus hit a Ford coupe at the intersection of Chillicothe and Main street Wednesday afternoon. There was no one injured but the Ford was badly damaged. The bus driver was not at fault as the driver of the Ford failed to observe the slow speed at intersections. The names of the occupants of the coupe could not be learned.

YELLOW SPRINGS TO VOTE ON THREE BOND ISSUES

Yellow Springs citizens will vote on three bond issues totaling $101,000 at the coming election. The school district will ask for $45,000 to be added to a bond issue of some years ago, for a new high school building. Another issue of $20,000 for improvements to the old grade building. Citizens have been talking waterworks for several months and a bond issue of $36,000 to finance this will be voted upon.

The notes will mature in five years but may be called for redemption after three years. For Rent: 93 acre farm. Grain rent. John Pitstick

FIRE DESTROYS HOME AND CONTENTS

Fire that started in the roof the small residence on the farm owned by Mrs. Minnie McMillan on the Williams ton road, burned the structure to the ground, Monday afternoon. The house was occupied by Mr. Wilbur Lemons but there was no one at home at the time. How the fire started is a complete mystery as the Lemons family uses a coal oil range during the summer. Part of the household goods were saved. The loss is partially covered by insurance.
